To whomsoever it may concern

I am writing to acknowledge the impactful contributions made by Zara Andhyarujina to our school's mission with her passion for and talent in chemistry, at such a young age.

Zara contributed her earnings from her Instagram Videos to fund all equipment for our new science laboratory and the first and second year of chemicals and consumables. This has directly impacted over 150 students for whom the experiments in their science text books have come alive. She inspired 20 of our girl students (ages 13 to 15) through an online interaction session that involved a science experiment and a question-answer session. The girls are looking forward to more sessions with her. Zara also has gifted us her favourite science books and other books from her library as well as tote bags that she has designed, that we will be gifting to our girl students.

We are extremely grateful to Zara and wish her the very best in her mission to inspire many more girls to take up science and make the world a better place for all.

Thanking You,

Yours sincerely,

Virgil Vihaan Sequeira,
Assistant Director/ Principal
